THE MOUNTAINEERS PURPOSES

To explore and study the mountains, forests, and water courses of the Northwest;
to gather into permanent form the history and traditions of this region;
to preserve by encouragement of protective legislation or otherwise, the natural beauty of Northwest America;
to make expeditions into these regions in fulfillment of the above purposes;
to encourage a spirit of good fellowship among all lovers of outdoor life.

HOW TO USE THE INDEX

This index to the Mountaineer Annual is divided into two parts: the Subject Index and the Proper Names Index (PNI).

To use this index, find the year of publication of the Annual in dark type followed by a colon and the page number of the citation.

Example: Ansell, Julian, 73:80 (c/n)

This means that a climbing note by Julian Ansell can be found on page 80 in the Annual published in 1973.

Unnumbered pages are designated by letter and number of the last preceding page: 16, 16A, 16B.

WHAT IS IN THE INDEX?

The PNI contains all proper names of persons, organizations and places. If names are identical, persons precede places. Included as persons are all authors of articles, poems, and books reviewed, all artists, photographers and cartographers, as well as persons of note written about in the annuals. Authors of climbing notes are indexed. Authors of outing notes, obituaries, and book reviews are not. Maiden and married names, and alternative first and second names are listed as published, with cross-references where known.

Included as places in the PNI are all geographical locations and special properties, such as huts or lodges. Geographical place names within the state of Washington are not usually identified unless necessary for clarity. Outside Washington, location by state, province or country is indicated.

The terms "mountain" and "mount" are dropped in all cases, except for reasons of clarity. Peaks are called "peak" only to eliminate confusion. Peaks, massifs, cliffs, traverses, glaciers and ridges are indexed by name; headwalls, faces, buttresses and spires are indexed under the name of the mountain of which they are a part. Elevations are listed after the place name in feet, then meters. Numbered peaks are listed following the word "peak."

The titles of articles and poems are not indexed. The titles of books reviewed are. Numbers found in titles are indexed as if spelled out alphabetically. Service award winners are not indexed, but are sometimes listed in the individual issues. Mention of most regular Club committees is omitted in the index, although some special Club activities, written up in greater detail, are listed.

Every issue of the Annual has a list of Mountaineer officers, past presidents, division and committee chairpersons, and branch chairpersons and officers. Financial information is found in each issue also. The Mountaineer standards and climbing code are found in many issues.

NOTES ON SPECIFIC ISSUES

The 1968 Annual contains a handbook on Club procedures and brief histories of Club committees, divisions, branches and properties.

-----end original p. 3-----

In the 1970 Annual, climbing notes are found under "Mountaineering Notes and Technical Climbs."

The 1977 Annual is in two parts, bound together. The second part is indicated in the Index as (2).

The 1978 Annual is in two parts, numbers 8 and 9, which are bound separately. Issue number 9 is indicated in the Index as (2).

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Warm thanks are extended to the following Mountaineers who helped compile the index: Susan Ball, Kathe Stanness, Howard Stansbury, Peter Stevens.
