Alki Point to Seacrest Foot Ferry Terminal

Walking distance: 8.6 km (5.3 miles)
Elevation gain: 130m (425 ft)

Section 9 of the Seattle Olmsted 70 trail begins at Alki Point and finishes at the West Seattle Seacrest Foot Ferry Terminal.

You can split Section 9 into two shorter walks. Section 9 West, "SoCal north" AKA Alki Beach, runs from Alki Point Lighthouse to Hiawatha Park 4 km, (2.5 mi) and Section 9 East finishes at Seacrest Foot Ferry Terminal 4.6 km, (2.9 mi).

For public transit options, public bathrooms and treats see directions, last page.

Section 9 West

*Walking distance: 4 km (2.5 miles)
Elevation gain: 122 m (400 ft).*

Walkers are responsible for their own safety on Seattle Olmsted routes.

Note: The route is stroller friendly in places. See Stroller Option below.

- Starting at Alki Point, where you may be able to visit the Coast Guard lighthouse on Sundays, head east up Alki Avenue SW with peek-a-boo views to Puget Sound.
- Turn left (north) into Alki Beach Park³ to stroll the beach or stay on the path. Terrific views west to the Olympics, north to Mt Baker and east to city terminals.

Bronze plaques provide a wealth of historical, natural and cultural information

- The miniature Statue of Liberty calls for a "selfie." And the bathroom block is handy.
- Cross the busy Alki Avenue SW at 61st Avenue SW.
- Turn left (south) to the corner of SW Stevens Street where you'll find the Log House Museum, home of the Southwest Seattle Historical Society.

Southwest Seattle Historical Society documents the "Birthplace of Seattle." The 22-member Denny Party landed nearby in the rain November 11, 1851. They sailed north from Portland on the Schooner Exact after a nine-month journey west from Illinois to the Willamette Valley. See Log House Museum.

- Turn left (east) on SW Stevens Street to Alki Playground³/Whale Tail Park (bathrooms).
- Walk east through the playground adjacent to the Community Center to the SW Stevens Street corner.
- Bear left uphill past the "Dead End" sign on gated, car-free Schmitz Boulevard² into Schmitz Preserve Park³.
- Heading uphill, check out the Banksy style graffiti underneath the elegant Schmitz Park Bridge (SW Admiral Way).
- Only Schmitz, Dead Horse Canyon and Seward Parks offer old growth trees.

- At first turning left, find shallow Schmitz Creek (hop stone to stone?)
- Go up opposite bank stairs and turn right (south) along a well-maintained trail to keep creek on right shoulder.
- At a 3-way intersection, bear right to continue along the creek.
- Hard left at the four-way intersection—do not cross the creek. Just ahead find a massive cedar tree on the left inviting closer inspection.
- Climb up out of the park on the often damp trail to a pump station. Exit park around a gatepost.
- On SW 49th Street cross over intended West Seattle Parkway⁵, which would have terminated at Alki Point.
- Continue on SW Hinds Street east past Madison Middle School.

- Turn left (north) on California Avenue SW for a feast of food and retail offerings on the way to West Seattle High School.
- Turn right (east) to go into the playfield/sports complex within Hiawatha Playfield/Park³, an Olmsted archetype for city parks and an historic landmark. In 1911 it was the largest public playfield in Seattle.

We are on the traditional land of the Coast Salish peoples who live here and steward these lands and waters as they have for time immemorial.

- Head around the track if you wish towards the Hiawatha Community Center³, closed for major renovations, part of a citywide Community Center Stabilization program (2024). It is the oldest community center west of the Mississippi. Did you find Heritage big red oak tree near the wading pool?

- Wander through the park northwesterly in back of the tennis courts and down 10 steps to cross SW Lander Street.
- Find, on the Safeway brick wall, three highly informative panels detailing the West Seattle Olmsted legacy
- The Good Society Brewery and Public House sits kitty-corner from Safeway across California Avenue SW. Don't miss the roof-high street mural.

You have completed Section 9 South.
Return via Line 50 Bus to Alki Beach Park.

Section 9 East

Walking distance: 4.6 km (2.9 miles)
Elevation gain: 8 m (25 ft)

Note: The final Section is largely down hill or along the shore.

- Go west on SW Lander Street turning right (north) on 47th Avenue SW.
- Cross (with caution) SW Admiral Way and immediately turn left (west) to SW Waite Street.
- At 51st Avenue SW turn right (north), then steeply downhill to a blind corner left (west) into College Street Ravine.
- Follow the narrow street curling right (north, no shoulder) to a sharp switchback left (south) onto Hughes Avenue SW.
- Don't turn right down College but keep going staying on Hughes to find hidden 53rd Avenue SW stairs at second Dead End sign.
- Turn right (north) to take the 175 steps (slippery?) straight down (not bearing left at Hobart Avenue SW).

- Cross busy Alki Avenue SW to walk right (east) along the footpath above Alki Beach to Duwamish Head.
- Pause to take in Pump Station 38's >22,000 tile mural Tracing Alki (2023, Moore) mural inspired by a 1894 West Seattle topographical map.

- Enjoy the Sound and Harbor views from Alki Beach (Luna Park) Pier. A plaque commemorates a 1906 shipwreck. Some 42 lives were lost on the Dix, the worst Seattle maritime disaster. High above on the cliff is Hamilton Viewpoint Park⁴
- Skyline views of downtown Seattle open on this northern most point of the Duwamish Peninsula (West Seattle).
- This is easy walking on the Alki Trail.
- Follow the sidewalk curving south past Don Arment Boat Ramp (bathrooms) to Seacrest Park and the King County Water Taxi Seacrest Dock.
- You arrived here via the intended Duwamish Head Parkway⁵. We're guessing your walk was easily the equal of motoring along Olmsted's network of "pleasure drives."

Congratulations, you just completed Section 9 of the Seattle Olmsted 70!

Options: Need taste of Downtown? An Orca Card speeds you onto the foot ferry for a view-terrific sail to Seattle Ferry Docks. Back to Alki Beach? Take the free 775 bus.

Note: The Friends of Seattle's Olmsted Parks map display gives five park categories. Our superscripts show: 1)Pre-1903, 2)1903-09, 3)1909-13, 4)Post 1913, and 5)Unrealized

Seattle Olmsted Circuit loops 120km (75 miles) via more easterly parks and boulevards (5 Sections, October 2023) connecting with the more westerly Seattle Olmsted 70 (7 Sections, June 2024).

Other Items of Interest

- Stewards for Section 9 are to be named.
- Schmitz Preserve Park (53.1 acres) remains "a densely wooded ravine." German immigrant Ferdinand Schultz donated a large chunk. Before it was preserved, some huge Cedar and Fir trees were harvested. Look for the springboard notches for evidence of logging.
- Duwamish People live along these shores and waterways. . See Duwamish
- Neighborhoods near or on this route are Alki Beach, North Admiral, West Seattle, Industrial Marine
- Seattle Walks (2025, 2nd Ed) by David Williams and Seattle Stairway Walks (2013) Jaramillos are excellent sources of walks, plus historical, cultural and natural information.
